

Late News from the Surrounding Towns

NEW CARLISLE.

Home coming and carnival week is being celebrated here this week. The streets are gaily decorated and great crowds are anticipated.

David Warren, son of Asa Warren, one of the first white settlers in this vicinity, died at his home in Chicago Sunday and was brought here Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock for burial in the New Carlisle cemetery. Mr. Warren lived here on the old homestead for some time and later went to Chicago with his family, to live. He is survived by his wife and six children.

Mrs. Minnie Burkhardt of Chicago was a recent guest of Mrs. Albert Fack.

Mrs. Minnie Miller of Laporte is spending the week with Mrs. J. C. Ordung.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hotchkiss have just returned from a week's outing at Paw Paw lake, Mich.

Mrs. James Rodgers was in Laporte Tuesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Amiel Marquette of Chicago were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ordung.

Thomas Ordung assumed his duties in the domestic service at South Bend, Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Ordung will spend the week with their parents here, but will move to South Bend later.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Greiger of South Bend were guests at dinner Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ordung.

Mrs. L. C. Egbert entertained the Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon. There was a good program, followed by a social hour, and light refreshments.

Mrs. Arthur Von Doehren of Valparaiso, is a guest of her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Pidge.

COTTAGE HILL.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rose visited Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newson of Buchanan, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. House and children of South Bend were guests Sunday of Lemon Marble and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and children of New Carlisle were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilcox.

Mrs. John House is visiting her son, J. House of Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whaley spent Sunday at South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holland visited Sunday with the latter's brother, Ed. Varier and family of Sumption Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wyckoff attended a meeting of the Horticultural society held at Frank Kline's of South Bend.

The ice cream social held by the Gleaners at Martin Witter's Saturday night was well attended and was a financial success.

Mr. and Mrs. August Storms and child, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Peffley and children of near New Carlisle were guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Redding.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Paff of Benton Harbor, Mich. were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Curtis and sons Harry and Frank of Laporte were guests Saturday and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. James Gamble.

Quite a number from here attended the Laporte county fair Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. J. C. Jackson and children of South Bend are guests of A. Nelson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence House and Mr. and Mrs. George Myler motored to Kankakee, Ill., Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Page of South Bend and Mr. and Mrs. John Vite of this place motored to Kankakee, Ill., Wednesday. They will visit there for several days.

Harian Barnes of Osceola is visiting his cousin, Jasper Barnes.

CRUMSTOWN.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Replogle of South Bend spent Saturday and Sunday with the former's parents here.

The Misses Iva and Kate Smith spent Sunday with their parents here. The W. O. W. dance Saturday night was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Mart Wendorf and family and Miss Blanch Riddle were at Valley Garden Sunday.

Jacob Wild, Jr., called on F. E. Riddle Sunday evening.

Elmer Price was in Laporte this week.

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Nyhart and grandson, Merton Norris of Sybert, Ind., spent several days with Mrs. Forest Riddle.

Glen Brown of South Bend spent Sunday with his parents south of town.

Edith Hoffman spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Maggie Riddle.

TERRE COUPEE.

A barn owned by T. H. Kline and occupied by Thomas Bennett burned Friday. The granary, with the entire wheat and oats crops, the straw, three horses belonging to Mr. Bennett, harness, etc., were destroyed. The fire broke out in the hay-mow, where at dinner, starting in the hay-mow. The cause of the fire is not known. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huston, Mrs. W. H. Ranstead and son Dumont, Mrs. A. Parker, Mrs. J. E. Paulin and the J. W. Cauffman family attended the Riverside camp meeting at Buchanan last week. Gypsy Smith, Jr., and Bishop P. P. Spreng of Naperville, Ill. were the most distinguished speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James Huston attended a harvest meeting and pioneer picnic at Lapaz Saturday, Aug. 30.

Benjamin Bates has added a new porch to his farm residence besides administering a new coat of paint.

ROLLING PRAIRIE.

Miss Pearl Mathews of Chalmers, Ind.; Miss Pauline Scholer and R. N. Mathewson of Brookston, Ind., and Mrs. Florence Hawkins and family of Michigantown, Ind., who visited at the home of Rev. D. E. Noland have returned to their respective homes.

Miss Louise Sargent of Chicago and Miss Ruth Sargent of Geneva, Ill., recent visitors of William Reese and family, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ivers and daughter of Casey, Ia., were guests at the home of William Reese for a day last week. They were en route to their home after an extended trip through the east.

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church gave a very successful "trip around the world" in spite of the rain.

Miss Louisa Williams has returned from New York where she completed the work of the summer term at Columbia university.

Charles Evory and wife and Miss

NIGHT SCHOOL TO OPEN ON SEPT. 29

Course in Civil Service Training is to be Added to the Branches Taught at the Y. M. C. A.

Night school at the Y. M. C. A. will reopen for the fall and winter session on Sept. 29, and classes will be held every evening except Saturday. The courses, according to Vernon Heimen, educational director, have been improved and enlarged, and instructors in most of the different branches have already been secured. Much care has been exercised by the educational committee in choosing competent instructors and in outlining courses most suitable to the general needs.

The object of the Y. M. C. A. night school is to fill the need for better training felt by many men and boys who have been denied the opportunity of educational advancement elsewhere. In its vocational training it aims to bring its subjects to the positions in life for which they are best fitted.

The school offers a general course in mathematics, including algebra and geometry, architectural drawing, bookkeeping, and penmanship; business law, English and spelling, mechanical drawing, and shorthand and typewriting.

Besides these regular courses the schedule offers boys preparatory work, known as the common school course, and a course in civil service training which is essential to the more advanced courses.

A fine feature of the school is the apprentice course, largely attended by boys from the leading factories of the city, the factories paying the tuition and membership fees. New courses to be added to the curriculum this year are, an automobile course given at the Seely Auto Training school, and a course in civil service, intended to prepare men for government examinations.

To the courses in mechanical drawing and mathematics which have been conducted in Mishawaka for the past two years will be added a course in business English. An unusually large number have already expressed their intention of entering the evening classes and the enrollment will be large.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed.

THE MISSING WITNESS.
A two-part film story, in which the characters are all given special introduction, one at a time. There seemed a little too much preparation for this story, as the main incident did not occur till the second reel. The court room scenes were well handled and the observer has considerable sympathy for the widow of the ruined county treasurer, whose testimony alone can save the boss from conviction as a murderer. Her conscience finally leads her to clear him, in spite of the fact that it brought ruin and death to her husband. At the surprise theater today with another reel of "How Women Love."

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS DEPUTY SHERIFF
Edgar Wilson, Who Was a Representative Two Years, Objects to Being Arrested.

BOISE CITY, Ida., Sept. 4.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested Wednesday on a charge of inebriety, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin.

The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and then struck him in the head, plunging a furrow along his scalp. His hand dropped to the floor just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1894 to 1898. He was assistant counsel for the defense in the trials of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone in 1897 following the assassination of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho.

* AT THE THEATERS *

LIFE IN OZARKS.
Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsie W. Reynolds. This play will be seen at the Oliver on Monday, Sept. 8.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It touches all the emotions, and its influence is wholesome and helpful, notwithstanding several rough characters that figure more or less prominently. The shepherd of the story is a cultured and rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed